But Thackeray has made a mistake
by taking on Sachin

At Thackeray might succeed to live his lifelong ambition of symbolically taking on the Indian cricket team, it has also cost him his Sydney elections.

Thackeray, the former head of the MNS and current chief minister of Maharashtra, has long been a vocal critic of Sachin Tendulkar, the Indian cricket captain who recently stepped down after a record-breaking 20-year career. Thackeray's comments have been widely condemned for their racial undertones, with many questioning whether Thackeray's remarks were motivated by political gain or a genuine desire to challenge the cricket legend.

The controversy began when Thackeray accused Tendulkar of

"...Greatest Cricketer of all Time..."

Thackeray's statement swiftly garnered the attention of the public and media, with many criticizing his rhetoric for being insensitive and potentially offensive. The controversy was further amplified when Thackeray's party, the MNS, responded by condemning

"...Thackeray for his editorial, which not only uses
..."

race as a political tool but also demonstrates a lack of respect for Tendulkar's achievements.

Tendulkar, who retired from cricket after "...record-breaking career..."

is revered in India and has been hailed as one of the world's greatest cricketers. The controversy highlighted the importance of addressing "...politics and ideology. But then to go a step further and issue a..."

race-based rhetoric in India, where such

"...discrimination and inequality..."

remains a significant issue.

The MNS's actions have been widely criticized,

"...criticism against the Maharashtrian..."

with many calling for a return to

"...inclusive and non-confrontational politics..."

in India. The controversy serves as a reminder of "...the need for dialogue and respect..."

in political discourse.

There will be no binding climate change deal at Copenhagen

It is turning out just as feared. The world's leaders will not be able to reach a binding climate change deal at Copenhagen.

The Copenhagen climate conference, scheduled to take place from December 7 to 18, was supposed to be the final chance for world leaders to agree on a new global treaty to combat climate change. But it now appears unlikely that a binding deal will be reached.

The failure at Copenhagen is a major setback for countries trying to reduce their greenhouse gas emissions and limit global warming. It also undermines the credibility of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change, which was

The lack of progress at Copenhagen highlights the need for immediate action to address climate change. The world must work together to reduce emissions and transition to a low-carbon economy.

The Copenhagen conference was originally scheduled to take place in 2005, but was delayed due to intergovernmental disputes and a lack of political will.

The failure at Copenhagen is a wake-up call for world leaders. It is a reminder that "...the climate is changing..."

and that urgent action is needed to prevent

"...disastrous consequences..."

for the planet.

The Indian judiciary cannot remain a closed book, especially in a country that values representative democracy.

In the wake of recent events, including the sterilization e-mail scandal, the judiciary has come under intense scrutiny.

"...There is no option but to..."

open up the judicial system,

"...to make it more transparent..."

and accountable.

The judiciary is the ultimate

"...guardian of the constitution..."

and must be able to

"...speak truth..."

to the people of India.

"...The times of India..."

is committed to exposing

"...the veil of secrecy..."

that surrounds the judiciary.

In conclusion, the Indian judiciary

"...cannot remain a closed book..."

and must be

"...subject to greater transparency..."

and accountability.
