Sadhguru Jaggi Vasudev, founder of Isha Foundation, Coimbatore, will open the largest Meditation Centre in Western Hemisphere, USA, today (Nov.8).

With over 200 centres worldwide, Isha Foundation is an international non-profit organisation dedicated to human well-being. The US Centre, Isha Institute of Inner Sciences (IIIS), situated on 1200 acres of lush green forests in the Cumberland plateau of Tennessee, is being developed as a destination for spiritual growth.

For seekers in the West. At the heart of IIIS is Mahima, a 39,000 square foot Meditation Centre.

With the consecration of Mahima, IIIS will be able to offer the ancient science of yoga in all its depth and dimension — in a way that has never been available in this part of the world.

Once consecrated, Mahima will not be a place of prayer, but a space with a vortex of energy where people can transform their lives to achieve freedom and a new dimension of perception.

The basic purpose of the Isha Institute of Inner Sciences is to inspire, to stoke, and to nurture this innate search in every being, helping them realise the ultimate potential within. Through Mahima, and the programmes that will be offered by Isha Institute of Inner Sciences, one can experience the power of the inner science of yoga, in which one can gain control over one’s inner energies.

Sadhguru is a spiritual master with a difference. His life and work serve as a reminder that yoga is not an esoteric discipline from an outdated past, but a contemporary science, vitally relevant to our times. Sadhguru’s talks have earned him the reputation of a speaker and opinion-maker of international renown.

With speaking engagements that take him around the world, he has been a delegate to the United Nations Millennium Peace Summit, a member of the World Council of Religious Leaders, as well as a special invitee to the Australian Leadership Retreat in 2006 and 2007, the Tallberg Forum and the World Economic Forum at Davos in 2006-2008.
