Let not Ch.Hill Nandi be 'Bisleri Nandi'

Mysore, May 9- Jaggi Vasu-deva expressed his concern for environment when he gave a call to prevent the Nandi atop Cha-mundi Hill from getting polluted by plastic debris. Let not the sacred Nandi become a Bisleri Nandi, he said.

The guru, who hails from Mysore, got his enlightenment on the Chamundi Hill. In that backdrop, he has immense love for both.

Sharing his feelings at the press meet, Jaggi Vasudeva said: "I visited the hill yesterday. I observed a mountain of empty water bottles in the vicinity of Nandi which dwarfed the historic idol. Mysore and Chamundi Hill are important tourist destinations. How can these be allowed to degenerate?" he questioned.

Not able to tolerate the littering around the Nandi, Jaggi Vasudeva made a trip to the spot by bus along with his followers and volunteers yesterday morning and cleared the area of all the empty bottles and garbage.

It is not a problem of just one day. We have cleared the place today. Tourists will be coming here everyday. The hygiene of the place can be maintained by creating awareness about cleanliness in them also," he said.

Jaggi Vasudeva's love for nature knows no bounds. He has seen to it that 45 lakh saplings have been planted at several places including Coimbatore, where he has taken residence. It is his conviction that the land can be made green by relentless efforts. He disclosed that he would continue his greening mission with inputs from his followers and volunteers.
