When Earth beckons for help

VARDHINI N.C.

DECCAN CHRONICLE

The city may not necessarily don the green look this Earth Day but it is indeed comforting that a few good souls have made up their mind in order to make a contribution to saving the environment.

“We are initiating a continuous programme, which goes on till Environment Day,” says D. Sudhakar, joint director, CPR Environmental Education Centre.

Commenting on the significance of Earth Day, VJ Pooja says, “I think this is one day when everyone makes it a point to do their bit for the environment.” She adds, “There is a definite rise of awareness amongst people and they are ready to work towards building a greener world for posterity.”