It was a magical night at the Isha Yoga Centre as Ustad Abdul Rashid Khan left the audience in sheer awe. His concert was followed by a memorable satsang with Sadhguru as well. A maestro of tremendous versatility, Ustadji is a noted classical vocalist from the Hindustani music tradition who gave his first concert at the age of 5. A century on, at 104, he shows no signs of fatigue and still continues his musical journey.

A constant stage performer for several decades, Ustadji is admired for his deep mellow voice, purity of raga, as well as his rhythmic excellence. His traditional compositions have been recorded by organizations like BBC London, Iraq Radio, UP Sangeet Natak Academy, etc.

Titles like 'Sangeet Maharishi', 'Bandish Samrat' and many more adorn his honours, as well as a plethora of awards such as the Kashi Swar Ganga, Ras Sagar and Sangeet Natak Academy Award to name a few. With more than two thousand compositions to his credit, Ustadji's currently a teacher who's dedicated his life and experience to his students at the ITC Sangeet Research Academy in Kolkata.
